

We miss you

I know it's true, we are all feeling the blues.

This is why we all need to carry on and try.

We need to be each others strength, but stay social distance at the right length.

The reason why I write this is, to say you are all truly missed.

I hope you don't mind but we would like to share, how much we really care.

You mean more to us then just your title, you are the people that are most vital.

Keeping you all well is our pleasure, and ensuring we keep to all our measures.

We will keep on smiling and ensure you feel secure.

Our lives will soon brighten and be enlightened.

The rainbow will bring colour after the darkness, and bring back our once lost happiness.

Your are all apart of our extended family, and we all feel that it comes naturally.

I hope you all know that we are awaiting your return, when it will soon be our turn.

We would be delighted to see the day that we will be reunited.

by Ani